

UGEQ referendum, SC vote today

SC candidates speak

by ROBERT TAYLOR

The SC candidates from the Faculty of Arts and Science presented divergent views on UGEQ at yesterday's ASUS open forum.

Barry Carin said that McGill should remain in UGEQ for the trial period, and should withdraw if UGEQ did not change its focus from a student-labour solidarity programme to an education programme.

Robert De Jean said that he was opposed to McGill's joining UGEQ because it would not represent the English-speaking interests at McGill.

He said that co-operation was possible only when complete equality existed between the two partners. He cited a "master-slave" relationship, as an example of a relationship, in which "partners work together, but there is no co-operation because there is no equality."

Morris Goldberg said that a "no" vote in the referendum would cause relations between English and French universities to become "absolutely horrible".

Ann McCoy said that she was not in favour of student syndicalism and that she believed that the ideals of UGEQ were not those of McGill.

Carl Pines criticised the present SC for leaving other important business "slide" while devoting too much time to the UGEQ issue.

He said that candidates should be elected not on the basis of where they stand on UGEQ, but on whether they would act responsibly in fulfilling the duties of an SC representative.

Stephen Schecter said that the aim of UGEQ was to build a "free, open, democratic" society in Quebec and that this could not be achieved without the support of the English-speaking universities of the province.

Norman Segalowitz said that there was a good chance that McGill would be allowed to retain membership in both CUS and UGEQ. He also said that McGill will have language rights in UGEQ.

Bernard Weiser said that UGEQ did not represent the views of the majority of French-speaking students in Quebec and that the English language and culture will be ignored.

He also said that the McGill delegates to the UGEQ congress were hand-picked by the Students' Council executive. When asked if he applied to be a delegate, he said he did not because he knew his application would be rejected.

McGill's membership in UGEQ and the makeup of the next Students' Council and Women's Union executive will be decided at the polls today.

UGEQ dialogue ends

by JOANNA WARWICK

Heckling, placards, and general audience enthusiasm marked the latest UGEQ debate, held yesterday in the Engineering Building.

Speaking for membership in UGEQ were Students' Society president Sharon Sholzberg and Daily editor Patrick MacFadden. Negative speakers were Lionel Chetwynd of the Law Faculty and Students' Society past President Saeed Mirza.

Miss Sholzberg said "accusations of the substantive policies of UGEQ were irrelevant to the question at hand. UGEQ reflects the ideas of the students within it," she said. "It is only by working from within that we can be heard."

"UGEQ must speak for all the students of Quebec. In this way we can present our grievances to the government more often," she said.

Mirza said he felt compelled to come out of retirement to present the "facts" to the students. Placards bearing "positively last appearance — Saeed Mirza — magician — my next trick is impossible" were displayed in the auditorium.

Mirza said UGEQ was formed on the basis of student syndicalism. He feels if students do not like the aims of UGEQ they should not join to work from within. "In the good name of the University and the Students' Council, I appeal to you to study the issues," he said.

MacFadden said he finds a sexual motif running through the question of our membership in UGEQ. "UGEQ is an ugly noise, whereas CUS..." He said Mirza is rather out of touch with politics and has only recently been dragged reluctantly back into the field.

"Each person has a right to an education, but many young Quebecers do not have the money," MacFadden said. On the question of student involvement in the "H. R. La Grenade and his terrible shoe factory" affair, MacFadden said Mirza had wanted to hear the employer's point of view also. MacFadden pointed out "this becomes a little ridiculous when the employer is earning $200,000 a year and the worker only 69¢ an hour".

UGEQ was not formed on a basis of syndicalism, MacFadden said, and substantive ideas in UGEQ can be changed. "We now have a chance to change the course of history in this unfortunate issue which had taken place over the past 200 years."

Chetwynd said he does not believe in the socialisation of professions. "I feel badly about what is happening to manual la-

Football awards to Redmen

by JOHN SKINNER

The only two Redmen selected for all-star honours in the Senior Intercollegiate Football League this season also received the top individual awards in the four-team loop today.

Bursting fullback Peter Howlett garnered the Most Valuable Player award. Dick Feidler was named Lineman of the Year by a poll of reporters and players in the four SIFL cities. Linebacreal has one more year in the Faculty of Law before graduating. He is a former Loyola Warriors star.

Feidler an all-time great Feidler, a 6'2", 230-lb. tackle from Erie, Pa., has been regarded as the league's top lineman since he came to McGill from Syracuse University in 1962. Since that time he has been named to the first all-star team four times, three of them as a two-way performer. He also received the Students' Society Trophy as the Most Valuable Redman this year.

The 25-year-old dental student will graduate this year and says he has no plans to play professional football. A quiet family man, Feidler plans to settle down with his wife Dorothy and their three children.

Redmen coach Tom Mooney said he was "very pleased" when he learned of the awards.

"This year Howlett was given his first real chance to carry the ball and he proved himself beyond any doubt," he said. "But what more can you say about Feidler? He was great this year just like he has been for the last four seasons."

Feidler also placed third in the voting for the MVP award. Gerry Sternberg was second and Bryce Taylor of Toronto fourth. Honourable mentions in the Lineman of the Year category went to Larry Ferguson and Frank Arment, both of Queen's and Toronto's Bob Pampe.

The MVP is chosen by the league's players and the winner receives the Omega Trophy and a watch. Previous winners are McGill's Tom Skypeck (1960 and 1962), Cal Conner of Queen's (1961), Willie Lambert of McGill (1963) and Queen's Jim Young (1964).

ker Al Giachino of Toronto won the Rockie of the Year award.

Howlett, in his third year with Redmen, was an overwhelming choice for the all-star berth at fullback last week and just missed being named to the team at offensive end as well. He finished second in league rushing with 412 yards for 4.6-yard average.

The men on horseback

We do not think it our duty to tell students what they ought to do nor do we think it our duty to represent them. What we have a duty to do is to explain what is going on as we understand it. Today we are going to tell you what is going on at McGill.

Yesterday an obscure little magazine entitled Resistance appeared on campus and was distributed to a number of students at lunchtime. Its similarity to the hate literature emanating from the Nazi headquarters of George Lincoln Rockwell in Arlington, Virginia is no coincidence. For this pathetic, sick scabber of hate was spewed from the pen of one Mr. Colin Gravenor, Jr. whose connection with the lunatic fringe of the far Right is well known among those unfortunate enough to have heard him on his favourite theme — "The Right To Hate".

Let us introduce you to Mr. Colin Gravenor for it is highly unlikely that you have heard of him. Mr. Gravenor hides his talents behind a series of front men who emerge to do his work for him. He is highly-skilled in the techniques of public relations, a skill which the more sophisticated Montrealer will know came from a long familiarity with some of the more dubious aspects of that profession.

Who master-minded the campaign against this journal at the beginning of this year? Why, none other than Mr. Gravenor.

At that time we referred to him obliquely as one who dwelt behind the wainscot. Informants tell us that he got the message. One of the reasons he lost out on that one, he claims, was that his front men were just too absurd to stand up.

Who master-minded the anti-UGEQ move on campus? Why, Mr. Gravenor. His front men this time had to be more sophisticated because here Gravenor was not taking on just another editor. This time Gravenor was taking on the entire SC. And specifically, Miss Sholzberg. Now here's what happened: (And we want you all to read this, BA1, and you, BA2, and you, BA3, and all you along the Gaza Strip and you in the Humanities Building and you who are reading this instead of listening to your lecture; because you, all of you, may just have been hooked as part of the Gravenor deal.)

The idea is to get rid of Miss Sholzberg and Mr. Cabatoff and the editor of this journal. How to do it? By trying to ensure that the UGEQ referendum is defeated. It's as simple as that. Miss Sholzberg is to be asked to resign. And who is going to take over? No, not Mr. Gravenor, who is not good in the limelight. The takeover will probably be made by Mr. Lionel Chetwynd who for the last few days has been posing as the darling of the anti-French Canadians. Mr. Chetwynd reportedly hopes to fill the gap left if Miss Sholzberg is forced to resign. His campaign will be run, possibly, by Mr. Mirza. Another possibility is that Mr. Mirza may decide to run himself. (It's an open secret that Mr. Mirza considers Mr. Chetwynd is getting far too powerful.) In the event of Mr. Chetwynd becoming SC president, save the mark, Mr. Gravenor will be parachuted in as editor-in-chief of this journal. The way will then be open for the kind of takeover of student affairs that is the ultimate aim of the Gravenor group.

Mr. Mirza's role in all of this is unclear. The best guess seems to be that he is being used to give an air of spurious respectability to one of the dirtiest campaigns ever waged. Even as this editorial was being written, Gravenor agents contacted us by telephone to try to find out what was going into the paper.

And on French Canada, where does Mr. Gravenor stand? Here are some selections from a letter of his to the Daily:

"The French Canadians must realize that the high cost of education and families of 12 and 15 just cannot go together. How many parents can pay the high cost of education educating up to 10 and 12 children at the same time?" And how about this for Anglo-Saxon arrogance? "French Canadians who refuse to speak English will not have to do so. They can enjoy their beautiful language and live within their province, or visit France, Haiti, Algeria, or Viet Nam. Unfortunately they will not be able to do business with the 200,000,000 Americans, and 13,000,000 non-French Canadians." Thus Mr. Gravenor on French Canada.

So, now do you all understand why the leaders of the anti-UGEQ faction have been speechifying all this week? If you do, we will have done something of a public service.

Now, here's what you, all of you who can believe in decency can do. Go out and vote, overwhelmingly, yes, in the referendum today. If the referendum is passed today McGill is not, as Mr. Chetwynd and friends have been implying for the last few weeks, bound irrevocably to UGEQ. All the referendum asks is approval of what the SC executive has done so far: committed us to a ten-month period in CUS and UGEQ, to give us a rational basis for a choice between them. That choice should not be made tomorrow; it will have to be made in ten months. A vote against UGEQ today is a vote for the Gravenor brand of racism. A vote against it is a vote for those in the minority in UGEQ who want to see Canada shattered. Go out and vote yes; let's join Canada at last.

LETTERS

A Final Word

Dear Sir,

There exists the very serious possibility that today's referendum on the issue of McGill's entry into UGEQ be determined on the basis of campus politics rather than the merits and demerits of the McGill-UGEQ relationship. The crucial nature of this latter issue must not be underestimated and must receive priority consideration when individual voting decisions are being made.

The consequences of an adverse result can only be analysed in terms of the over-all French-English relationship, most particularly in Quebec but also throughout Canada. Those who are "Anglo-Quebecers" do or should realise the obscure prospects in Quebec for a conservative, timid and privileged university which refuses the opportunity to participate fully in Quebec society and to demonstrate its altogether too-long-delayed preparedness to make its commitment to the society in which it is, but of which it has hitherto not been a part.

The argument that UGEQ policy and leadership is too radical and over zealous has some basis in truth. However when the first flushes of student radicalism (manifest among a limited number of French Canadian students) clear away, brought to earth by the realities of the limits of student influence — there will remain a solid framework within which progressive yet responsible student activism can and should take place.

The abuses of a radical group usually result from an absence of moderating influences. Since support for moderation exists among French Canadian students (as witness the favorable impression McGill delegates to the recent UGEQ convention created) I submit by making a genuine commitment to the main thrust of UGEQ (e.g. education and student syndicalism) activities, the images of Anglo-Quebecers will be measurably strengthened and in the larger term will prove responsible progressive and culturally rewarding.

The repercussions of a negative decision may not be uppermost in the minds of the non-Quebec residents, transient students etc. There appears to be a group of students whose activities concerning McGill-UGEQ relations have been somewhat less than sensitive to the historical, social, economic and cultural elements involved in Quebec society most of which are based on "gut-reactions" affording little reward to an intellectual analysis conducted by opportunists lacking a proper focus.

In short, foreign students are not and can not be expected to be as sympathetic to this major but delicate issue. Those attempting to promote self-interest at the possible expense of so many people with whom they have no present or possible future association is irresponsible and callous.

The issue over whether Miss Sholzberg and her colleagues had a mandate or not; whether there should be organized opposition to the Students' Council; whether or not The Daily editor should resign or whether this is a conspiracy to take McGill into UGEQ or not are all irrelevant to the critical issue of whether or not McGill is going to be seen to act responsibly with respect to an organization which legitimately aspires to influence the educational climate as a provincial jurisdiction in Quebec.

Thus in casting their ballots today may I urge all responsible students to be guided in reaching their decisions by a clear distinction between their paramount and subordinate interests — The priority interest is UGEQ — There is only one alternative — Entry. All other options are only pseudo alternatives — mere pusillanimous hesitation. Meanwhile an anxious society impatiently awaits.

The Daily Pot

Out of the bowels of the Macdonald Engineering Building comes a plaintive cry from the Editor of a "sister publication" who is, and intends to remain, a Québec Canadian.

After all the anguished cries and urgent handbills which have sprung up all over campus in the past few days dealing, for the most part, with specific thorny items in UGEQ's constitution, many people seem to forget what is really at stake in our fair province in this decade.

I'm a Canadian and, being so in these times, I must also be a worried Canadian. How quick we are to forget the bombs which were left on English Quebec's doorsteps so recently! They were the result of a century of smouldering frustration and dissatisfaction by our French-Canadian citizens.

We held ourselves aloof and turned our backs so often that it took a few bombs to give us the message and force us to listen to the people who live all around us. Those of us who have lived in this province for years and those of us who wish to go on living here, should strive to make sure that this never happens again.

The only way we can do this is to open up every possible line of communication between the two major groups in this province and in this country. UGEQ is one such line of communication!

Does not membership in UGEQ offer us first and foremost the opportunity to listen to our French-speaking fellow students?

Will it not offer them the opportunity to see that we are not the ogres that some of them often seem to think we are?

Now, what about the much objected to constitution? Does it not stand to reason that any infant organisation born at a time when people are in ferment socially and otherwise will be set up by somewhat activist individuals with an axe to grind? From a small group UGEQ has grown into a large group and it will become constitutionally what the majority of delegates wish it to become. As it grows larger it will likely grow up.

As some people maintain UGEQ may develop into an excessively political and socialist (dreadful word!) organisation. If so we can always get out but if it turns into a strong and mature voice of Quebec students, I'm not so sure that we'll be able to get back in.

And why should we relegate UGEQ to the shoe-factory picketers so early in the game? If UGEQ wishes to call itself by a name that embraces all Quebec students then they should have to tolerate the dissenting voices of the moderate right-wing — a wing which is by no means small and by no means solely English-speaking.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL REPS

MARVIN SCHECTER

We, the committee for the candidate, feel it is time that the Law Undergraduate Society brings to bear its counsel and influence on the major policy decisions of the Students' Council, by offering a policy of constructive leadership rather than one of negative criticism. We have asked Marvin to run for LUS representative because we feel that Marvin brings to his position an intelligent, informed viewpoint necessary to the formation of positive criticism and proposals, essential to the regeneration of Law's influence on Students' Council decisions.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ROBERT VINEBERG

We have entered UGEQ without any effective negotiation. If, by next September, we have not negotiated English as an official language of UGEQ and McGill's joint membership in both CUS and UGEQ, we must conclude that there is no understanding on the part of UGEQ of the aims and needs of McGill students, and we must withdraw.

The proper scope and limits for Students' Society activity have never been defined. As a result, we today find the Students' Council allotting money for political pressure groups and various "activist" projects such as demonstrations and marches. These protests are rarely directed towards the interests of the students of McGill or of Canada. I believe limits must now be placed on Students' Society activities, by constitutional amendment if necessary, restricting to as great an extent as possible the expenditure of Students' Society money to only those activities directly benefitting the students of McGill.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

NURSING

elect one

ELIZABETH LANGDON

PENSKECH:

"Liz" is a fourth year Basic Nursing student. She plans to encourage greater participation of Basic Nursing students in campus activities, and to achieve a better recognition and representation of this group's needs on the Students' Council. She hopes that by promoting participation in non-academic activities, the undergraduate nurse will be able to enlarge her scope of learning and truly receive a liberal education while at McGill. Her activities include, Intramural sports, Choral Society, Blood Drive, Treasure Van, Women's Volunteer and Open House 1965.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

SHARON SCHARF

Sharon is a fourth year Basic Nursing student. She hopes to gain recognition for the undergraduate on the Students' Executive Council. She is aiming for equal representation not based on numbers of faculty members. She also hopes to enlighten the general public on the value of a university nursing education. By being an active member of the council, Sharon will try to encourage greater participation of nursing faculty in campus activities. Her activities include, Chairman of Freshman reception for nursing, member of committee for Open House in nursing faculty, Blood Drive, Combined Charities, and the University Volunteer Service.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ARCHITECTURE

elect one

PHILLIP GOOCH

PLATFORM:

- 1) Against McGill joining UGEQ movement without the students fully understanding the political implications in this group. As well, to examine the issue from the point of view of the best interests of foreign students, as well as Quebecers.
- 2) Express the wishes of the Architectural Undergraduate Society in Student affairs.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ALEX LAM

We, the committee for the candidate, feel he is particularly well qualified to represent the students of the School of Architecture. Alex has always participated in extra-curricular university functions and thus can appreciate the needs and desires of the architecture students. His activities include: Open house (originator of AUS symbol), AUS historian, AUS photo-lab, cultural convener for MCSS and Editor in chief of "Milestone," a publication of MCSS.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ENGINEERING

FRANK FARAGO

PLATFORM:

If elected, I shall do my utmost to continue to give the engineers the high standard of representation that they deserve. I shall vigorously encourage school spirit. It will be my duty and aim to stay in close contact with my fellow engineers in order to keep them completely informed of all SEC happenings, to hear their complaints and voice their opinions.

PENSKECH:

Frank has been at McGill since 1962, having completed his high school in Montreal with first class standing. Presently in fourth year Mechanical Engineering, he takes part in several campus activities. Frank is his class representative, and also the chairman of the EUS Film Committee. In his fourth year with the Royal Canadian Navy, he is serving as Cadet-Midshipman.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ROSS LUNAN

PLATFORM:

If elected I will, to the utmost of my abilities, uphold a high standard of representation to the SEC in the best interest of the engineers. The necessity of good communications cannot be overemphasized and therefore I will work to maintain a good relationship between the SEC and the EUS. I feel that it is important for the engineering students to be kept well informed and will therefore endeavour to maintain close contact with my fellow students.

PENSKECH:

We feel that Ross is duly qualified for this important position. During the past years as treasurer and president of the Amateur Radio Club he has proven to be very responsible and has shown initiative and versatility in handling his executive duties. In addition Ross is Assistant Operations Manager of Radio McGill and here also he has demonstrated a fine ability to deal intelligently with his peers.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

ABE ROLNICK

PLATFORM:

- 1) At all times to conscientiously represent the best interests of the EUS and the EUS and engineering undergraduate students.
- 2) I consider it my duty to stay in close contact with my fellow engineers and thereby keep them completely informed of SEC happenings.

PENSKECH:

Abe Rolnick is a fourth year Electrical Engineering student, who has proved his abilities and willingness in numerous activities, such as the Freshman Reception and the Blood Drive. He is also an active participant in many sports as he plays both football and basketball on the EUS teams. He has maintained a high academic standing in all his years at McGill. We, the committee for the candidate feel that he is well qualified to fulfill the duties required as an SEC Engineering Representative.

ARTS & SCIENCE

elect three

BARRY CARIN

1) More proportional realistic representation for Arts and Science. There are three representatives for 4,000 students... Dentistry — 1 representative for 120 students.

2) Council should have the mandate to decide critical issues, however when the issue is sufficiently controversial and important to campus consultation, a referendum should be held.

3) In favour of joining UGEQ... Education is a provincial affair, therefore McGill should be represented by a Quebec student body. Attempt to remain affiliated with CUS for liaison purposes — to articulate the aspirations of Quebec society to the rest of Canada.

4) Appointment by SC of Ombudsman to investigate all complaints and/or injustices.

5) To ensure that Council's decisions are based on the desires of the student body.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

ROBERT DE JEAN

PLATFORM:

Robert will support the wishes of the students as expressed in the UGEQ referendum. He personally feels that the terms of entry should be reconsidered, and will work for close co-operation with CUS.

Robert believes that the present makeup of the SC is unfair to Arts and Science students, who form 42% of the student body and are represented by only 17% of the members. He thinks the constitution should be clarified to make referenda binding on Council. He will co-operate with the Residence Committee, the IRC and the business manager to improve conditions in the residences. In general, Robert De Jean will work for greater democracy in student government.

PENSKECH:

An Honours Mathematics student and a University Scholar, Robert served as secretary to the Undergraduate Physics Conference, which brought 100 students from 16 universities to McGill last month. He is president of the Mathematics Society, participated in MCSA and is an active member of the Physics Society and the Science Council.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

MORRIS GOLDBERG

Morris Goldberg is a University Scholar in Math-Physics. We nominate him because his unparalleled experience in student affairs will be an important asset to the SC. Initiator and Director of the Students' Society's Programme in Student Government, vice-chairman of the Information Bureau, Goldberg has also served as vice-chairman of the CUS Committee, on the University Affairs Committee and on the Student Discount Service. He has represented McGill at the UGEQ Congress and at the recent CUS Conference. Goldberg also co-authored the UGEQ Report.

Goldberg believes that the SC must stimulate broad participation in SC decisions, and that the most pressing area of student involvement is the University — particularly in the classroom.

Goldberg will work towards:

- 1) Improving student-faculty relations;
- 2) increasing Arts and Science representation on the SC;
- 3) having regular reports of SC members in the Daily;
- 4) establishing a student study of the education system.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

ANN MCCOY

PLATFORM:

1. UGEQ — enthusiastic support for reciprocal relations between McGill and UGEQ for maximizing the potential benefit for those participants involved.

2. Fees — SEC formation of a committee with advisors from economy department, business firms, provincial government and University administration devising methods of increasing scholarships and bursaries for a wider range of students.

3. ASUS — Active support from the SEC in the Arts and Science Course Evaluation programme.

PENSKECH:

Ann attended Newton College in Boston before transferring to McGill. There she was Freshman House Council Representative. At McGill she held the position of appointments co-chairman of the Blood Drive and has worked on Campus, Red Feather, Treasure Van and the executive of the Delta Gamma fraternity. She has considerable interest in the French-English situation as it pertains to McGill and her outlook is supplemented by her French education at Collège Marie de France.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

CARL PINES

Carl feels that his views be considered secondary to those of the electorate in the administration of this office. He would be elected to voice the opinions of the students before the Council. To this end, if elected, he will:

- 1) seek out a consensus of opinion among those he represents by maintaining regular office hours and through polls;
- 2) give greater publicity to candidates seeking positions as Daily Editor, so that their views could be made public and evaluated by the students;
- 3) act as liaison between the students and the Council;
- 4) publicize Council meetings in order that students be kept aware of proceedings.

Carl is a third year Science student and is currently vice-president of ASUS. He was vice-chairman and publicity director of the International Festival, chairman of the ASUS constitution committee, and organizer of the Open House dance. Other activities include Blood Drive, Old McGill and functions in the University Centre.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

STEPHEN SCHECTER

We asked Steve Schecter to stand for nomination because his background in student affairs is unsurpassed. A University Scholar, External Affairs Director, he has been vice-chairman of CUS, Co-ordinator of the National Affairs and Services Committees, co-chairman of the University Affairs Committee, originator of the Residence Committee and delegate to the UGEQ Congress and CUS Conference. Schecter is author of the UGEQ Report, one of the first serious attempts to involve McGill students in SC decisions.

Schecter believes democracy to be essential to our elections. He therefore proposes that candidates declare their stands before they are elected. He sees the student actively engaged in a learning experience about himself, about knowledge, about values, about society. He is for McGill's entry into UGEQ, and for free education. He is prepared to explain his views in written publication and open debate. Schecter contends that all candidates must debate openly, or an isolated SC will once again represent a deceived campus.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

NORMAN SEGALOWITZ

PENSKECH:

We nominated Norman Segalowitz because we believe that Arts and Science should have only the most qualified and responsible as its representative on the Council. Bilingual, Honours Psychology, Segalowitz has been founder-President of the McGill Humanists, founding chairman of the International Affairs Committee, creator of the University Centre Library, Executive member of the CUS Committee, Programme in Student Government, National Affairs Committee, a delegate to the UGEQ Congress, and is presently permanent representative of the Students' Society on the UGEQ Commission on International Affairs.

PLATFORM:

Segalowitz has worked with both CUS and UGEQ and favours continued involvement in both organizations. He feels the student should be given the opportunity to play a more direct role in the running of student affairs. Segalowitz also advocates proportional representation for the Students' Council and the publication of an official Hansard of SC meetings, to increase campus awareness of council's activities thus facilitating student participation in their government.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

BERNARD WEISER

PLATFORM:

The Students' Council and its decisions should not be those of a politically orientated group reflecting the viewpoints of a few members on it, but should be more representative of the student body than they have been in the past by: 1) establishing a closer liaison between the student body and the Council; 2) a more democratic representation of the faculties in the council; 3) ensuring that the Daily reports the news objectively and gives adequate coverage to campus activities, while leaving the editorial and editorial off-set pages the prerogative of the Editor-in-chief; 4) withholding financial support from demonstrations, nominally of the McGill Students' Society, but which only represent a minority of the students.

PENSKECH:

We support Bernie because we agree with his objectives and because we feel that he has the background, the knowledge, the motivation, and the courage of his convictions to best carry out these objectives.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

COMMERCE

elect one

CHARLES KASNER

Charles has always shown an active interest in campus activities. Apart from participating in Cercle Français and the High School Tutorial Programme, he has always demonstrated a keen interest in commerce affairs. He is also vice-president of the McGill Liberal Club.

During the candidate's years at McGill it has come to be known that although he has strong ideas of his own, and is not afraid to express them in public, he does abide by the decisions of the majority.

PLATFORM:

1) Support Gerald Ross's stand in the SEC. 2) Adequate control of SEC so that the electorate's mandate is not misused or abused. 3) Provision of channels whereby the electorate may censure their representatives if they fail to comply with the wishes of the electorate. 4) Inform students about the council meetings. 5) Make results of referenda constitutionally binding.

COMMITTEE FOR THE CANDIDATE

MALCOLM KING

PENSKECH:

Malcolm King epitomizes the newly emerging image of the School of Commerce, "businessman". An accounting major, he is adequately qualified for the post of Commerce representative to the SC. He is, of course, familiar to you all through the key role he played in organization of the successful Commerce exhibit in "Meet McGill '65". On the extra-curricular scene he is a senior member of the Investment Club and a "Balance Sheet" staffer. He is also on the committee recently established to revise the Commerce Undergraduate Society Constitution.

PLATFORM:

1) Membership in UGEQ — education is a provincial matter. 2) An informative report by the SC representative to be published monthly in the "Balance Sheet." 3) An expansion of the newly instituted auditing service.

UGEQ...

bourers, but I don't go through eight years of university to identify with them.

"They will tell you if you are concerned with social issues to join UGEQ. This is not so. Vote no," he said.

MacFadden challenged this statement. "As long as UGEQ does not represent all universities, the minister of education will not listen to it. As long as McGill is not a member of it UGEQ is not a political force. Those who are opposed to free education will naturally try to keep McGill out."

Daily Pot...

Getting out now before we've even given it a try will be slamming the door in the French faces again and, once again, turning our backs on the opportunity for French-English co-operation so badly needed in our Province and our Country.

ARNOLD ABERMAN

PLATFORM:

I am against McGill joining UGEQ because it is a political organisation and in a political organisation, any membership must be voluntary on an individual basis. I also support the principle of accessibility for all qualified students but I am against totally government-paid tuition. I favor a system of government endorsed loans repayable within 10 years of graduation. This will ensure freedom of choice for the student. I am also definitely in favour of maintaining the private status of McGill. I oppose the SC subsidizing any political demonstration — of the right or the left. These demonstrations must be paid for by the students involved.

PENSKECH:

Arnold Aberman is a third year medical student. He is a University Scholar and a member of the Alpha Omega Alpha Medical Honour Society. Last year he was Chief Associate Editor of the CAMSI journal. This year he is chairman of the Lyman Duff Memorial Lecture. He is an able student with a keen interest in providing responsible student government at McGill.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

JOEL ROSEN

Joel Rosen advocates McGill's withdrawal from UGEQ because membership would: 1) support unculturalism, not biculturalism; 2) support political policies not necessarily those of the student body; 3) forfeit our minority rights in Quebec; 4) cause expenditure of student fees for non-student activities (such as shoe factory demonstrations). A great danger of student syndicalism lies in the possibility of its becoming highly non-representative.

An increase in governmental control over student activity by free education or student salaries will lead to the breakdown of student autonomy. This must be avoided.

The candidate would like to see the present system of management of the Union Cafeteria and Bookstore changed to a student co-operative system.

The issues before Council are of extreme importance to the Students' Society and to its relationships with other academic and non-academic groups. The casting of a truly representative vote in the SC necessitates the delegate's thorough familiarity with the opinions of the students. Joel Rosen would give Medicine an active role in the Society's functioning.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

BAYLA SCHECTER

PENSKECH:

We, a concerned group of medical students, have asked Bayla Schecter to stand for nomination because only the most qualified and responsible should fill the position. Having been SEC reporter for the Daily, Canadian University Press Editor, Blood Drive vice-chairman, and vice-chairman of Travel Week, Bayla will bring to Council an informed outlook. A second year student, she will continue her full-time involvement in student affairs. With a background in activities involving the whole campus, Bayla has the recognition which will permit Medicine to effectively influence and moderate the action of the Students' Council.

PLATFORM:

Bayla plans to involve the SC in the affairs of the MUS with a view to: (a) acquiring graduate status and the accompanying privileges, (b) influencing the future organization of Quebec Medicare. She will seek involvement of medical students in the decisions of the council by regular reports in the MUS bulletin and by faculty referenda when possible and when relevant.

COMMITTEE
FOR THE CANDIDATE

TIM YATES

PENSKECH:

Tim has demonstrated enthusiasm for, and ability in, extracurricular activities during six years at McGill. He is keenly interested in Medical student's representation to the Students' Council and has proven his ability to deal with the problems which would face him there.

Recommendation for this candidate is based on many accomplishments. Among them: Graduate in Honours Biochemistry; Past Publicity Manager, Radio McGill; Fraternity executive; past assistant to chairman, Red Feather Blitz; Social Chairman, Medical Class of 1968; participant in Model Parliament.

His personal integrity, combined with the experience outlined above, leave no doubt that Tim's election would best serve the interests of the medical student body.

PLATFORM:

If elected I will: 1) Support the adoption of the Bladen Commission recommendations on financing of higher education. 2) Vote to take McGill out of UGEQ as it is presently constituted i.e. based on the concept of "Student Unionism". 3) Consult the medical student body before voting on any major issue.

We feel that Christel is well qualified to fulfill the responsibilities of an executive of the Women's Union.

Activities in which Diane participated in the past two years are Co-Chairman of the Social Committee of Newman Club, Co-Chairman of the Summer Committee of Newman Club, member of SUNAC, and Red Feather Blitz. In high school, Diane held many executive positions and represented her school on the United Amusement Corporation.

COMMITTEE
